It is time to start planning for a healthy and earth-friendly lawn
Free Dallas seminar scheduled for January 30th at Richland College

(Dallas, Texas) As we approach the spring growing season in Dallas, residents are invited to attend a free seminar on ways to have a healthy, earth-friendly lawn in 2010. The seminar will be held on Saturday, January 30, 2010 from 9a.m. until 1 p.m. at Richland College in Dallas.

Subjects to be included during the free seminar include how to water efficiently, how and when to fertilize, the proper height to mow and other tips to give you a healthy lawn while protecting the environment and saving money. Other gardening topics include WaterWise herb gardening, sustainable landscaping, rainwater collection and do-it-yourself sprinkler repairs.

Sessions will be conducted by experts from the City of Dallas Water Conservation, City of Dallas Stormwater Management, Texas AgriLife Extension Service and Dallas County Master Gardeners.

Space is limited so please register online at www.SaveDallasWater.com or by calling 214-670-3155.
